TABLE TOPICS

Joy Gaylord, ATMS, CL
Theme: "Superheroes"

Lauren DeSantolo, IP1 - Her new superhero would be a female named Trixie, and her super power would be spreading peace. She would be the sexy goddess of health and peace.

Khalid Amin (guest) - His super power would be to whisper in the ears of the world leaders and make them do everything possible to help the downtrodden.

Stephanie Gonzaga
Her superheros would be Wonder Woman and Aquaman. They are both strong, sexy, relatable and have unique abilities.

Lada Lysniak, CC, CL - She would combine two superheros: Captain Underpants and the Joker, to create “dweebs with sexy underpants.”

John Thackeray, VC5 - His superpower would be a runner: he would fight the trolls of Massachusetts and the vampires of New Hampshire by running 100ks.

Stanford Womack (guest) - The format he most prefers for superheroes is movies and TV.

Jennifer Saunders - she wouldn't change any superpower: she would enhance them they could instantly defuse violence and aggression.

Darcel Davenger - Catwoman has the best costume, and she should be paired with Mr.
Incredible. Halle Berry was the sexiest catwoman.

Matthew Hughey - The ability to manage time would be the best superpower - rewind it or flashing forward. Be able to redo things.

David Lee - All of the superheroes look sexy in their underwear.

Speakers

Marek Kaminski, speaking from Innovative Planning (L1) Icebreaker with the title: "One Last Game Night AKA Ashes" 5:65

Marek spoke today about how he first discovered Toastmasters with a desire to improve his English skills. He was a member of two different clubs in Poland, the latter being "Wroclowe Storytellers" in his native Wroclaw. Unfortunately, that club has dissolved for the moment and combined with another club. They just held their last meeting, and while it made Marek sad, he also reflected on new beginnings at our club and the combined Polish club and sung us a verse of a song: "Beauty Comes From Ashes."

Geneva Kwok, speaking from Innovative Planning (L1) Evaluation and Feedback #1 with the title: "Public Speaking - Grace Under Fire" 5:29

Many people at MPW think of Geneva as one of our most powerful speakers, but she doesn't have all the answers. None of us do. Her bosses at an investment bank demands she be concise, direct and clear. Years ago, she joined us to get help giving a wedding toast. She stays because she wants to continue improving, as she lacks directness. She walked us through what a supportive environment Toastmasters is, and gave us a call to action to push her and help her find those answers she feels she lacks.

Jovima Abatayo, IP5 speaking from Motivational Strategies (L1), Evaluation and Feedback #1, with the title: "Roadblocks of Communication" 6:10

Jovima has a simple way of thinking: all of us have roadblocks with our communication and if we can break out of them, we'll all be better people and live happier lives. We find it difficult to express ourselves and to just listen to others to assess their needs. She strives to communicate better with her husband and her children, and to put her faith in the Lord when things get challenging. What are your roadblocks? How can you surround yourself with people to help you get past them?
